The Alexandre III neighborhood is a residential area located in Cannes, a city on the French Riviera renowned for its glamorous lifestyle, stunning beaches, and the world-famous Cannes Film Festival. Named after the French king Alexander III, this neighborhood enjoys a prime location, typically offering a mix of luxury residences, charming streets, and close proximity to the Mediterranean Sea.

It is near the heart of Cannes, with easy access to the Croisette — the city's iconic promenade — as well as major attractions such as the Palais des Festivals, the venue for the Cannes Film Festival. This neighborhood is appreciated by both residents and visitors for its quiet, refined atmosphere, while still being just minutes away from the vibrant city center.
